Introduction

Each year the Colorado FFA Association selects ten student members to represent the association as a state FFA officer. Throughout the year, this group has a variety of responsibilities. They are elected officials expected to represent the student membership during Executive Committee meetings. They are teachers of leadership and teamwork to regional FFA officers and chapter members. They are motivational speakers who will inspire members and non-members to heights they did not think they could achieve. They are communicators and public relations specialists on behalf of the Colorado FFA Association building positive relationships across the state and across our nation. They are teammates to the other nine state FFA officers and to the staff of the Colorado FFA Association. They are learners, eager to absorb and grow to the fullest extent possible to fulfill their responsibilities. Selecting the ten best candidates that will serve in this capacity is a challenging task for the twelve members of the nominating committee. To facilitate this committee’s success in accomplishing the goal a process exists – the state FFA officer selection process. This handbook details that process. All of the information is valuable and we encourage current candidates, advisors and prospective candidates to give this document careful consideration.

A Day in the Life of a State FFA Officer

Congratulations on your decision to run for a Colorado FFA State Officer position, one that surely took hours of thoughtful consideration. Although you do not necessarily need a title or position to influence others, hopefully you will use your position on this team as a platform to reach and impact the people around you, including your family, friends, teachers and most certainly FFA members. Most people cannot say that they have nearly 6,000 people that look to them for guidance and leadership on a daily basis. However, as a state FFA officer, that is exactly what you have been asked to do. You are expected to be a positive role model everyday to the 6,000 members of the association by encouraging them to be their best. Doing so effectively will require a great deal of work and leadership on your part.

Though serving as an officer can be one of the most rewarding experiences that you can have, it does not all occur in the spotlight. There are many tasks that must be accomplished behind the scenes that you may not know about, but will allow your year to run much more smoothly. Those might include state officer meetings, planning workshops, work at the state office, practicing your skills, as well as a variety of other tasks.

When you are elected to state FFA office, your time becomes a precious commodity. Once you understand this and learn to manage your time effectively, your officer experience will be much more rewarding. You will have many things that require your time and full attention including, participation in FFA activities and visits, other extracurricular activities, time with family and friends, and managing your free time. If you would rather live the life of a college student by following your own schedule, then state office may not be a good fit for you. Although your year of service can be exciting and rewarding, it will also be busy and stressful at times. You must utilize self-management and time management skills to accomplish all of your objectives.
State FFA Officers represent the epitome of what the association stands for and what we have to offer. Therefore, you are expected to uphold the highest ethics and morals and have a solid character foundation. This includes presenting yourself in a clean, professional manner, showing respect and compassion towards all people, following the FFA code of ethics, and remaining committed to the position, the association, the organization, and its members during your entire year of service. You will sign a contract between yourself and the association that will outline all of the expectations of the office and you are required to uphold that contract. The strong character of a state officer also implies that you will be willing to grow through your service. You should practice to become an exceptional public speaker and communicator, work to build positive relationships, and arrive at all events punctual and adequately prepared to represent the association. Though you might not know everyone that speaks or contacts you, students, teachers, community members and others will always identify you as a state officer. Therefore, wherever you are, wearing the blue jacket or not, you should always remember that you are still a representative of the FFA and your character should reflect that.

Even though you will be wearing the blue jacket many times this year, your effectiveness may very well be determined by what you do when you are not wearing the jacket. Remember, whether you are in a classroom presenting a workshop, eating in a restaurant, attending a sporting event, or alone, FFA members are looking to you. A day in the life of a state officer is busy and exciting, but does require much of you. Consider these factors during your preparation to ensure that you can meet the full expectations of the position. If you can, we wish you the best in a most rewarding and exciting journey. We hope that you are up to the challenge – the FFA needs you!
State Officer Roles and Responsibilities

Job Summary

The State FFA Officer, under the direction of the Colorado FFA State Advisor, is responsible for serving and representing nearly 6,000 FFA members. Officers represent the image and direction of the Colorado FFA Association to teachers, state staff, teacher educators, agriculture industry executives, government leaders, the media and the general public.

The ten state FFA officers will report directly to the State FFA Advisor. The officer is responsible for working as a team player with both agricultural education staff and nine other team members in activities dedicated to advancing the mission of Colorado Agricultural Education and the Colorado FFA Association.

The position is an elected position provided for by the Colorado FFA Association Constitution and Bylaws. If selected for the position, officers will hold the position for one year – from association convention to the following association convention. Throughout this time officers are responsible for a number of responsibilities.

A key role is that of being a communicator and spokesperson for FFA, agriculture and education. Officers prepare and deliver speeches and facilitated presentations for a wide variety of audiences including: students, parents, administrators, sponsors, teachers and teacher educators. Facilitated presentations and speeches will be made on a large group scale (i.e., 100 or more), in small groups (i.e., 20 or less), and one-on-one interviews (i.e. with media, or in conversation with various stakeholders). In addition to spoken presentations, officers may also author several written articles throughout the year.

Officers also play the role of relationship builder with partners in industry, education and government; as well as local and state stakeholders like parents, administrators, teachers and others. The individual is responsible for conducting visits, in cooperation with the Colorado FFA Association and the Colorado FFA Foundation, to share key messages regarding the organization, its mission, and success stories with partners in business and government.

Another key role is that of individual interaction with members. Officers meet with members one-on-one and serve as a mentor and role model. Officers also develop and deliver workshops for students on topics related to premier leadership, personal growth, and career success.

Officers are also responsible for organizing and managing personal finances, correspondence, and most travel throughout the year. The officers work setting will normally be their personal home, or the state FFA office. Officers will be provided with the technology and materials deemed necessary to carry out their responsibility effectively.
Essential Functions

1. Participate in training, orientation, continual self-improvement and evaluation of activities as directed by the state staff, national staff, and past state officers.
2. Serve as a member of the Executive Committee at all meetings as required by the state advisor and executive secretary.
3. Attend and participate in the National Leadership Conference for State Officers and BLAST Off Training with the state officer team.
4. Participate in making visits to business and industry as directed by the state staff.
5. Represent the Colorado FFA Association at other local, state and national activities as directed and scheduled by the state staff.
6. Participate in planning and conducting the state’s leadership conferences.
7. Plan and conduct chapter visits throughout the state and present workshops, meet local teachers and administrators, give speeches and perform other duties as necessary.
8. Author and co-author journal entries and articles for print and online publications hosted by the Colorado FFA Association and other partners.
9. Participate and serve as an official delegate in the delegate process and attend the National FFA Convention.
10. Attend chapter banquets and present keynote addresses as deemed necessary by the chapter advisor and state staff.
11. Plan and conduct the state FFA convention with assistance from the State FFA.
12. Plan, prepare, read, study, listen, review and practice to continue improving public speaking and teaching skills.
13. Stay up to on agriculture, agribusiness and agricultural education facts and issues.
14. Develop positive relationships with FFA members, advisors, staff, sponsors and the general public.
15. Maintain a positive attitude and enjoy your year of service with members, advisors, and staff.

Additional Responsibilities

1. Prepare and submit expense vouchers to the State FFA Advisor receive to reimbursements for FFA related expenses.
2. Keep current with all correspondence. Examples of required correspondence include, but not limited to, thank you letters for business and industry visits and chapter visits, replies to member emails, correspondence with state staff, and other event planners at the local, regional, and state levels.
3. Adhere to the State FFA Officer Contract at all times.

Being an officer involves a commitment to things not listed here as well. For example, when officers are at home they are expected to stay “on-top-of-things” by checking and replying to e-mail; calling contacts; maintaining finances; and keeping up with correspondence. Being an officer means being available throughout the entire year and that includes some home office time as well as a large commitment to traveling for the association.
